Josephine Reina

Associate

Josephine Reina focuses her practice on collaborative client service in coordinating, managing, and executing on legal strategies designed to successfully resolve toxic tort, pharmaceutical and medical device litigation, and other mass torts.

With proven experience collaborating with internal and external attorneys in trial preparation and settlement negotiations, Ms. Reina keeps an intentional focus on proactive client service featuring timely and concise communication with thoughtful recommendations to best navigate the desired litigation process. Her clients also benefit from her understanding of mass tort case discovery, including taking and defending depositions of witnesses, as well as preparing and responding to discovery requests.

This provides Ms. Reina with unique insight into the likely trajectory of mass tort matters and identifies instances where associated litigation has the potential to develop into a mass tort, providing clients with decisive pathways to evaluate and allowing them to choose from alternative litigation and resolution strategies. This includes experience with asbestos, environmental, and toxic tort legal strategies that align with the potential risk and exposure.

In addition to toxic tort, Ms. Reina regularly works with clients in products liability litigation, specifically in the area of pharmaceuticals and medical devices. She handles all stages of cases, including court appearances, depositions, and motion practice. She approaches every case with a commitment to being thoroughly prepared to defend a client up to and through trial in an effort to defend the integrity of a product or brand, when necessary.
